Evaluation of Faculty Teaching Courses of Alternate Lengths

Approved at Executive Committee
27 February 2007

Approved at Representative Council
8 March 2007

Faculty teaching courses that are shorter than the regular fifteen-week semester will have peer and student evaluations conducted from the midpoint of the course over a period of two weeks. For example, faculty teaching the eight-week Professional Semester course will have evaluations conducted during the fourth and fifth weeks.

Other terms and conditions that apply to performance review and evaluation under Article 12 of the Collective Bargaining Agreement and existing local policies will remain in effect.
